RESEARCH

Semptember 2017- C.I.R.C.O.
C.I.R.C.O. is conceived by the collaboration of the 2017-18 Urban and architectural design Lab experience at Roma Tre Univeristy and the art collective Stalker.
The ongoing project proposes a rethinking of migrants, transients and mobile populations hospitality policies by mapping and reusing the abandoned or underused Roman real estate.
The main goal is to promote access to these spaces for all the city inhabitants, enabling them to partecipate to the collective construction of living, interaction spaces and sociability.

January 2017- EMIDIO DI TREVIRI
'Emidio di Treviri' is a research collective that was set up in January 2017 through a Call for Research launched by the 'Brigate di Solidarietà Attiva', a mutualist association that intervenes in emergency situations by promoting bottom-up solidarity and self-recovery practices. For 15 months, more than 50 researchers, videomakers and reporters have worked on a multi-disciplinary and volunteer basis to analyse the effects of the devastating earthquakes of 2016/2017 on the affected population. Methodological rigour and theoretical insights have been combined with active participation in the local struggles for recovery to produce a coordinated effort towards an inclusionary politics of reconstruction. A militant approach has thus been given to the whole project since its very beginning.
In particular, I have worked in a research network called "Abitare", whose purposes were to give a critical reading of the various housing solutions adopted in the emergency phase, to investigate the territorial effects of the resulting housing chaos and to present the framework of inequalities and vulnerabilities raised by it.

June 2018 After twelve months of fieldwork, all outcomes have been collected in a book - Sul Fronte del Sisma: Un'inchiesta militante sul post-terremoto del Centro Italia (On the Front Line of the Earthquake: A militant research in the aftermath of the quake in Central Italy) - published in June 2018 by DeriveApprodi. My contribution to this publication is the chapter "Non è dolce vivere qua. Genesi e ricadute territoriali delle Soluzioni Abitative d'Emergenza" written with Giulia Barra, Serena Olcuire and Davide Olori.
